The screenshot shows the South Asia Archive website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with "My Archive: Register | Sign In" and a main menu with "Home", "Explore Content", "Advanced Search", "My Archive", and "About". Below the navigation bar is a search bar with "Quick Search" and a "Quick Search" button. The main content area is divided into several sections:

- Explore Content by Subject: A grid of subject categories including Agriculture and Environment, Anthropology and Archaeology, Arts and Art History, Cinema and Media Studies, Civilizational Studies, Commerce and Industry, Development, Education, Gender, Government, Politics and Public Policy, History, Humanities, General, Indology, Language and Linguistics, Law, Literature (and Fiction), Religion and Philosophy, Science, Technology and Medicine, Sport, Leisure and Tourism, and Urban Studies.
- What People Are Searching For: A list of search queries and their results, such as "Quick search: 'bombay suburbs'", "Full Text: 'a novel data augmentation s...'", "Full Text: 'face recognition'", "Full Text: 'face recognition using mach...'", "Quick search: 'industry of calcutta'", "Quick search: 'indian city'", "Full Text: 'advance discrete mathematic...'", "Quick search: 'plague india'", "Quick search: 'baby'", and "Full Text: 'pedestrian detection a sur...'".
- Introduction: A text block describing the South Asia Archive as an extensive resource for students and scholars across the humanities and social sciences. It mentions that the historical documents within the Archive are truly interdisciplinary, reflecting the varied range of knowledge production in colonial and early post-colonial India and the wider sub-continent. It also states that the archive comprises material sourced from collectors and archivists by the South Asia Research Foundation, bringing together a wealth of important and unique primary and secondary content. A "Learn More" link is provided.
- Resources: A section featuring two book covers. The first is "User Guides" with the text "Get an insight into how to get the most out of the Archive by reading our user guides, including a resource for librarians!" and a "Start reading" link. The second is "David Arnold reviews The South Asia Archive" with the text "It demonstrates the richness and diversity of readily searchable South Asia materials." and a "Read the full review here" link.
